Deacon Formation information night scheduled

The diocese's Deacon Formation Office is sponsoring an information night for men who want to learn about the ministry of the diaconate. The first information night on the Big Island will be held at St. Joseph Church in Hilo on Wednesday, November 9th at 7:00 pm. Married men and their wives are highly encouraged to attend as a couple. Wives are an important part of the diaconate. There will be an information night in Waimea on Wednesday, Nov. 16 at Annunciation Parish and also in Kona at St. John's on Saturday, Dec. 3rd at 2 pm. If you have any questions, call Deacon Jerry Nunogawa at 935-8464.

Hello, I'm Franciscan Father Greg Friedman, with the "Sunday Soundbite" for the Thirty-second Sunday in Ordinary Time.

In my parish there are several older women parishioners who embody for me the beautiful description of "wisdom" found in today's first reading from the Hebrew Book of Wisdom. There, the notion of wisdom is described in feminine terms. "Lady Wisdom" anticipates what we may be seeking; she waits for us at the start of each day; meets us as we continue through our day. Those wise women elders in my parish fit that description. I look to them for guidance. When they come into the parish church each Sunday, I feel a bit more confident because our community has the gift of their presence and their experience.

The Gospel today offers us a reminder that—in Matthew's parish at least—there were both wise and foolish women, and men. The evangelist was warning his community that all of its members needed to be prepared for the Lord and his eventual return, an event whose date and time are unknown to us. So Matthew tells the parable of the wise and foolish virgins, and their readiness or lack of it for the bridegroom's return. Locked doors and some hard words from the bridegroom make the parable a real challenge.

But I suspect that my wise women parishioners would remind me that being prepared for the Lord is the basic Christian challenge. His final coming, as well as his daily presence in my life is something I need to be ready to welcome.

 And for all who are sick

- In just a few weeks we will begin using the new English translation of the Roman Missal - Third Edition.
- Let's consider a few more changes that appear in the Communion Rite and the Concluding Rites.
- At the Invitation to Communion, the priest will say: Behold the Lamb of God, behold him who takes away the sins of the world. Blessed are those called to the supper of the Lamb. This beautiful sentence is a fusion of the words of John the Baptist from John 1:29 and those found in the Book of Revelation 19:9. The word "behold" is a poetic word that invited us to a deeper contemplation of the mystery we are about to receive in the Sacrament.
- The people will respond: Lord I am not worthy that you should enter under my roof, but only say the word and my soul shall be healed.
- The first half of the sentence echoes the words of the Gentile centurion when Jesus says he will visit his house to heal his servant who is ill (Mt 8:8 and Lk 7:6). Jesus is moved by his centurion's strong faith. In saying these words we too acknowledge both our unworthiness to receive such a gift as the Lord's body and blood and our faith that Jesus, nevertheless, comes to us in the Sacrament.
- "And my soul shall be healed," reminds us that the healing we receive in the Eucharist is a spiritual healing.
- Finally, in the Concluding Rite, Pope Benedict XVI put his own touch on the revised translation by adding two new options for the Dismissal. One is "Go and announce the Gospel of the Lord." The other is "Go in peace, glorifying the Lord by your life." Having celebrated the Eucharist, these words now sum up, in a beautiful way, our mission as Christ's people in the world.
- Last summer, when the Holy Father gave his recognition to the new translation, he encouraged us to implement it with patience and great charity. For priests who preside at the liturgy it means relearning almost all of the prayers of the Mass so we need to be especially understanding toward our priests. It will take some time for all of us to get used to the new words, but in time they will become a part of us.
- Remember the new translation is not just about changes to words. It's meant to change hearts and lead us to a deeper experience of Christ present in the liturgy.
