13th Sunday in Ordinary Time

Cycle B

1st Reading – Wisdom 1:13-15; 2:23-24 The Book of Wisdom was written in the late second or early 1st century B.C. in Greek. Until the discovery of the Dead Sea scrolls it was not known to have existed in Hebrew, but its discovery there shows that it was accepted and used by the Jews of Jesus’ time in the area of Palestine. It is believed to have been composed in Alexandria in Egypt.

2nd Reading – 2 Corinthians 8:7, 9, 13-15 Saint Paul is taking up a collection for the church in Jerusalem and he is now appealing to the generosity of the Corinthian people. He uses this approach: “You are already noted for your charisms of faith, writing and knowledge; now how about charity?”

Gospel – Mark 5:21-43 The gospel reading of the 12th Sunday in Ordinary Time is the first of a group of three miraculous actions, the stilling of the storm. This week we hear the third of this group, the healing of the sick. The miracle which is skipped over between Sunday readings is the exorcizing of a demon (Mark 5:1-20). These miracles occur early in Jesus’ public ministry.

What we hear today is really two healing stories – the healing of Jairus’ daughter (5:21-24, 35-43) and the healing of the woman with the flow of blood (5:25-34). Another sandwich like the first reading of the 11th Sunday in Ordinary Time, although this one is not an allegorical sandwich. The literary device of a sandwich was used by Saint Mark on several occasions (Mark 1:21-28; 2:1-12; 6:7-30; 11:12-21). The two stories have several points in common

- 1) Female sufferers
- 2) The number twelve (5:25,42) which is representative of Israel
- 3) Vocabulary – “faith,” “fear,” “sane,” “daughter”
